Introduction

The European Space Forum will return to Brussels on 2-3 July 2025 for its 5th edition, bringing together key industry leaders, policymakers, and experts for two full days of in-person, face-to-face discussions

The EU space sector stands at a critical juncture. Expanding international competition coupled with the rapid pace of technological innovation and a shifting geo-political landscape, underscores the need for Europe to bolster its strategic autonomy and develop a more resilient and competitive space industry.

Against this backdrop, this year's event will explore how to best shape a robust and innovative industry capable of competing on the global stage while safeguarding Europe's strategic interests and future ambitions.

Sessions will be highly interactive, fostering open dialogue and collaboration among speakers and attendees, encouraging the free exchange of ideas and constructive challenges.
